

A man with short brown hair and a slight smile stands in a doorway. He is wearing a dark navy blue V-neck sweater over a maroon collared shirt, dark blue denim jeans, and black leather loafers. His hands are in his pockets. The doorway is framed by two dark wood doors with a traditional panel design. The background wall is a warm, yellowish-gold color, and the floor is a light beige. The lighting is soft and directional, coming from the right, casting a shadow of the man onto the wall behind him and the door to his right.

A close-up, low-angle shot of a person's lower legs and feet. They are wearing light-colored, possibly beige or tan, trousers with a visible crease down the center of each leg. On their feet are dark brown leather loafers with a classic moccasin-style stitching around the toe. The person is standing on a light-colored wooden floor. The background is a darker wood paneling, possibly a door or wall, with a shadow cast across it. The lighting is warm and directional, coming from the side, creating soft shadows and highlighting the textures of the fabric and leather.

Moccasin construction is characterized by a single piece of leather which is used for the upper and extends all the way under the foot. The moccasin is one of the more flexible constructions.

Welt construction is easily identified by the stitched strip of leather that is visible on the top of the outsole. The major advantage of this construction is that the sole can be replaced a number of times.

Cement construction the outsole and heel are cemented to the upper and insole.

Strobel shoe construction features an upper which is completely sewn to a flexible insole. The last is then inserted to properly shape the upper. This is known to be one of the most flexible shoe constructions.

California construction has a very casual look. These shoes can be immediately identified by the wrap which curves down smoothly and tucks under the insole.

composition

Leather is appreciated for its traditional, natural look, along with its durability. This makes it the sole material of choice for a wide variety of shoes, often used on Cement and Welt constructions.

TPR is a man-made composition with tremendous slip resistance and flexibility. It is also one of the most durable unit outsoles available. TPR is also often used in inlaid flex bar pads on leather-soled shoes. This sole material is often used in Cement and Moccasin constructions.

Rubber is a durable outsole material often valued for its slip-resistance and moisture-resistance. It is valued for its incredible longevity and light weight. Rubber is often used in California or Strobel constructions.

Polyurethane has millions of microscopic air bubbles. It is lightweight, flexible and highly shock-absorbent. This abrasion-resistant material is a very durable unit outsole, often used in Moccasin constructions.

F-Lite made from the EMAX® compound, this is a high performance lightweight microcellular cushioning system. This lightweight sole material is designed specifically to have a longer tread life and low compression set to long lasting comfort. This is ideal for California and Strobel constructions.
